

As a airline crew member, I am very concerned about the possible use of cellular telephones onboard aircraft. During times of emergency preparation and communication of critical information to passengers, we must have 100% of the passengers' attention. Allowing cellular telephone use onboard is a very bad idea.